The do not use order is being lifted on Oct. 19, 2018, for the remaining area served by the Craft-Turney Water Supply Corp. based on sample results from additional samples collected from the remaining limited area of the system under the ban on October 16th. An evaluation of the results for these samples indicate that though the chlorothalonil is still present at low levels in this area, the levels detected are well below those that would pose a health concern. The TCEQ will continue to monitor Craft-Turney's water supply distribution system, and to meet with the customers in this limited area to provide information.

The TCEQ continues to investigate this incident to determine the source and cause of this incident, and to evaluate compliance with applicable state and federal regulations.
